Innkeeper's tax increase could grow tourism infrastructure

BY BOB DEMAREE

A proposed innkeeper's tax increase in Jefferson County could provide additional funds for marketing and building tourism infrastructure based on a plan presented to Visit Madison Inc. (VMI) Monday.

Jim Bartlett, a Madison City Councilman who serves on both the VMI Board and Jefferson County Board of Tourism, laid out the proposal at the VMI board of directors meeting.

In the most recent legislative session, Indiana's General Assembly approved increasing the Jefferson County innkeeper's tax from 5% to 8%. The tax, a user fee levied on all rooms in hotels, motels, bed and breakfasts, Airbnbs and other lodgings, is paid by the guests who stay there, not local residents. The proposed increase still must be submitted to the Jefferson County Council for approval in order to become law, which is expected to occur later this year.

Bartlett said JCBT wants to earmark 1.5% of that increase for tourism infrastructure while the other 1.5% would fund VMI as well as community grants to benefit tourism.

He said one of the potential infrastructure projects could involve the trolley, which last fall VMI executed a successful trial run by partnering with Madison Trolley Inc. for use of two trolleys.

"The trolley is an extremely important part of our tourism infrastructure and our ecosystem here," said VMI Executive Director Andrew Forrester. "People look to it, they depend on it, whether it's transporting third graders to an event or it's for a family reunion, or it's for the more traditional tourism functions for a conference or a convention" the trolley is needed to transport people around the city and county.

Bartlett said the trolley isn't the only project that would be considered for tourism infrastructure dollars but it is "one under consideration as a more permanent solution."

Last fall, VMI acted as the booking agent for the trolley with guided tours, and run loop routes downtown and on the hilltop. With the proposed partnership, Forrester said VMI would handle bookings and coordination of drivers while Madison Trolley Inc. would employ the drivers and provide insurance.

"I look at this as an opportunity to help a tourism partner accomplish those goals in serving guests in our community," said Forrester.

Meghan McVey named MCS Teacher of the Year

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison Consolidated Schools has honored its teachers in years past, but for a first time ever a special event was held to recognize the corporation's top educators and Meghan McVey was named Madison Consolidated Schools Teacher of the Year.

A Teacher of the Year was selected for each building in the school district with McVey selected at Deputy Elementary School. She was then chosen over five other MCS teachers to be Teacher of the Year for the entire corporation.

"To be named for the school is such a huge honor because even though our school is smaller compared to others, the faculty there is top notch," said McVey. "A complete honor to be named for Deputy, but then to named district where you've had a tremendous amount of people who have been nominated, and then to have whittled down to one per school, it's very humbling and I'm very honored."

McVey said she had no expectations that she would receive such an honor. "I'm there for my students and to give them what they need. To have it validated that I'm doing a good job is awesome."

A native of Corydon, McVey is married to Jacob McVey, MCS Safety Coordinator/School Resource Officer, and has three children — Makenna, Maecy and Miriam.

As winner for all of MCS, McVey is now eligible for Indiana Teacher of the Year honors for which Madison Junior High School teacher Eric Phagan was a top 10 finalist last year.

McVey has been a teacher for 10 years — the last six at Deputy where she is the first and second grade math, science and social studies teacher.

"She is energetic and enthusiastic about what she does, and is always coming up with fun ways to get students involved," said Deputy Elementary Principal Kathy Stoner, adding that McVey is "always prepared and willing to learn … She implements initiatives with confidence and fidelity, and she's a positive role model to others."

Other MCS Teachers of Year who were recognized include: Melissa Ommen, a first grade teacher at Anderson Elementary; Angel Traylor, a third grade teacher at Lydia Middleton Elementary; Ann Motenko, a fourth grade teacher at Rykers Ridge Elementary; Shawn Bentz, band teacher at Madison Junior High School; and Meghan Sprong, special education teacher at Madison Consolidated High School.

Dr. Teresa Brown, superintendent for Madison Consolidated Schools, said the selection process for district teacher of year was a "very tough decision because every single one of those teachers could represent admirably at the state level … We have great people here."

FEMA relief is unlikely for victims of March 14 tornado

BY BOB DEMAREE

Based on feedback local officials are receiving from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), it appears unlikely that federal funding will be available to those impacted by the March 14 tornado.

On Wednesday, Jefferson County Emergency Management Agency Director Matt True said he's working with the Indiana Department of Homeland Security to ensure everything is documented that can be counted towards potential federal assistance but "it's highly likely that we will not meet the threshold."

On Tuesday, Trimble County Emergency Management director Andrew Stark said that Trimble County will not be receiving a FEMA IA (Individual Assistance) Declaration for the March 14 tornado damage. This follows a previous announcement that Trimble County did not receive a FEMA PA (Public Assistance) Declaration.

Stark said this means that "unfortunately any damages to your home or property will have to be handled by you. There will not be any assistance from FEMA for those of you that may have qualified."

Trimble County sustained an estimated $1.89 million damage from the March 14 storm that slammed downtown Milton and other areas on both sides of the Ohio River.

Stark noted that many who sustained damage were either renters or did not have insurance. "In order to get dollars from FEMA you have to have insurance," said Stark, adding the most that can be received from FEMA is approximately $6,500.

Stark is still awaiting an announcement on an application for a Small Business Administration (SBA) Declaration. He said that declaration is for businesses, but "technically if you have a home you can apply through SBA, even if you don't have a business, and they can give you a low interest loan."

KSP investigating fatal fire in Carroll

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Kentucky State Police are investigating a structure fire that claimed the life of a male victim on Sunday afternoon in rural Carroll County about 8 miles south of Carrollton just off KY 55.

At approximately 4:19 p.m. on Sunday, April 21, the Carroll County Sheriff's Office contacted KSP Post 5 regarding a structure fire at 131 Amanda Lane in Carroll County.

The investigation is ongoing and being conducted by Kentucky State Police Post 5 as well as the coroner's and medical examiner's offices.

It was reported that a home was burning and a person was possibly still inside the residence.

KSP Post 5 troopers and detectives responded to the scene.

Fire departments from both Carroll and Henry counties responded to the residence.

After firefighters extinguished the fire, a search of the scene located unidentified human remains inside the residence.

Carroll County Coroner Brent Stucker said preliminary autopsy results indicate the male victim died from "smoke inhalation and thermal burns" but his name is not being released at this time pending positive identification.

According to state police, no foul play is suspected in the fire at this time.

The investigation is ongoing and being conducted by Kentucky State Police Post 5 as well as the coroner's and medical examiner's offices.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 26, 1986, an explosion and fire at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant in Ukraine caused radioactive fallout to begin spewing into the atmosphere. (Dozens of people were killed in the immediate aftermath of the disaster while the long-term death toll from radiation poisoning is believed to number in the thousands.)

On this date:

In 1607, English colonists went ashore at present-day Cape Henry, Virginia, on an expedition to establish the first permanent English settlement in the Western Hemisphere.

In 1865, John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Abraham Lincoln, was surrounded by federal troops near Port Royal, Virginia, and killed.

In 1913, Mary Phagan, a 13-year-old worker at a Georgia pencil factory, was strangled; Leo Frank, the factory superintendent, was convicted of her murder and sentenced to death. (Frank's death sentence was commuted, but he was lynched by an anti-Semitic mob in 1915.)

In 1933, Nazi Germany's infamous secret police, the Gestapo, was created.

In 1964, the African nations of Tanganyika and Zanzibar merged to form Tanzania.

In 1968, the United States exploded beneath the Nevada desert a 1.3 megaton nuclear device called "Boxcar."

In 1977, the legendary nightclub Studio 54 had its opening night in New York.

In 1984, bandleader Count Basie, 79, died in Hollywood, Florida.

In 1994, voting began in South Africa's first all-race elections, resulting in victory for the African National Congress and the inauguration of Nelson Mandela as president.

In 2000, Vermont Gov. Howard Dean signed the nation's first bill allowing same-sex couples to form civil unions.

In 2009, the United States declared a public health emergency as more possible cases of swine flu surfaced from Canada to New Zealand; officials in Mexico City closed everything from concerts to sports matches to churches in an effort to stem the spread of the virus.

In 2012, former Liberian President Charles Taylor became the first head of state since World War II to be convicted by an international war crimes court as he was found guilty of arming Sierra Leone rebels in exchange for "blood diamonds" mined by slave laborers and smuggled across the border. (Taylor was sentenced to 50 years in prison.)

In 2013, singer George Jones, believed by many to be the greatest country crooner of all time, died in Nashville at age 81.

In 2018, comedian Bill Cosby was convicted of drugging and molesting Temple University employee Andrea Constand at his suburban Philadelphia mansion in 2004. (Cosby was later sentenced to three to 10 years in prison, but Pennsylvania's highest court threw out the conviction and released him from prison in June 2021, ruling that the prosecutor in the case was bound by his predecessor's agreement not to charge Cosby.)

In 2022, Russia pounded eastern and southern Ukraine as the U.S. promised to "keep moving heaven and earth" to get Kyiv the weapons it needed to repel the new offensive, despite Moscow's warnings that such support could trigger a wider war.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 27, 1521, Portuguese explorer Ferdinand Magellan was killed by natives in the Philippines.

On this date:

In 1810, Ludwig van Beethoven wrote one of his most famous piano compositions, the Bagatelle in A-minor.

In 1813, the Battle of York took place in Upper Canada during the War of 1812 as a U.S. force defeated the British garrison in present-day Toronto before withdrawing.

In 1865, the steamer Sultana, carrying freed Union prisoners of war, exploded on the Mississippi River near Memphis, Tennessee; death toll estimates vary from 1,500 to 2,000.

In 1941, German forces occupied Athens during World War II.

In 1973, acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray resigned after it was revealed that he'd destroyed files removed from the safe of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt.

In 1978, 51 construction workers plunged to their deaths when a scaffold inside a cooling tower at the Pleasants Power Station site in West Virginia fell 168 feet to the ground.

In 1992, Russia and 12 other former Soviet republics won entry into the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank.

In 1994, former President Richard M. Nixon was remembered at an outdoor funeral service attended by all five of his successors at the Nixon presidential library in Yorba Linda, California.

In 2010, former Panamanian dictator Manuel Noriega was extradited from the United States to France, where he was later convicted of laundering drug money and received a seven-year sentence.

In 2011, powerful and deadly tornadoes raked the South and Midwest; more than 60 tornadoes crossed parts of Alabama, leaving about 250 people dead and thousands of others injured in the state.

In 2012, the space shuttle Enterprise, mounted atop a jumbo jet, sailed over the New York City skyline on its final flight before becoming a museum piece aboard the USS Intrepid.

In 2015, rioters plunged part of Baltimore into chaos, torching a pharmacy, setting police cars ablaze and throwing bricks at officers hours after thousands attended a funeral for Freddie Gray, a Black man who died from a severe spinal injury he'd suffered in police custody; the Baltimore Orioles' home game against the Chicago White Sox was postponed because of safety concerns.

In 2018, North Korean leader Kim Jong Un made history by crossing over to South Korea to meet with President Moon Jae-in; it was the first time a member of the Kim dynasty had set foot on southern soil since the end of the Korean War in 1953.

In 2019, a gunman opened fire inside a synagogue near San Diego as worshippers celebrated the last day of Passover, killing a woman and wounding the rabbi and two others. (John Earnest, a white supremacist, has been sentenced to both federal and state life prison terms.)

In 2021, President Joe Biden signed an executive order to increase the minimum wage to $15 an hour for federal contractors, providing a pay bump to hundreds of thousands of workers.

In 2022, Russia cut off natural gas to NATO members Poland and Bulgaria and threatened to do the same to other countries, using its most essential export as an attempt to punish and divide the West for its united support of Ukraine.

In 2023, Jerry Springer, the onetime mayor and news anchor whose namesake TV show featured a three-ring circus of dysfunctional guests willing to bare all — sometimes literally — as they brawled and hurled obscenities before a raucous audience, died at 79.

HDBR urges property owner to redesign project on Fifth Street

Proposed pole barn design not compatible with neighborhood

BY BOB DEMAREE

Madison's Historic District Board of Review approved three applications for certificates of appropriateness at Monday's meeting but tabled a request for design changes on a 40-foot by 47-foot pole barn in a lot back of 701-703 West Street.

Brian Marshall, who owns and is rehabilitating 701 and 703 West Street, will be splitting off the back area behind those structures to create a new address that will be 108 West Fifth Street. He wants to construct the new building to store automobiles with an office that will provide a location for renters to drop off rent payments.

However, all five HDBR members in attendance agreed that a building designed as a pole barn does not fit the character of that historic neighborhood, and Marshall was agreeable to the board's decision to table the application to give him an opportunity to submit a new design at HDBR's Tuesday, May 28, meeting, before ruling on the application.

"I'll see what I can do with it," said Marshall, just prior to the board's unanimous vote to table.

Earlier in the meeting board member Ken McWilliams told Marshall, "The design is not compatible and appropriate for the district. What other ideas do you have? Have you thought of other ways to construct this?"

Marshall said, "I tried to dress it up as much as I could" with faux stone along the lower part of the front where there's a garage door, two windows and a door. But HDBR board members all agreed that more needs to be done.

Board member Happy Smith said, "This whole area has really undergone a transformation in the last six years," citing renovations at Mulberry and Fifth streets where once dilapidated and neglected buildings have now been rehabilitated, including the work Marshall is doing for the buildings at 701-703 West Street.

"This whole area is coming back. It's a pretty cool neighborhood," Smith said, noting that HDBR's work is to "encourage further investment in the neighborhood and specifically put in neighborhood buildings that are compatible with the historic buildings that are already there."

Board member Carol Ann Rogers agreed. "The drawback I have are the aesthetics of it … this looks more like an industrial building in a residential transitional neighborhood … I think it's the appearance that's holding me back from saying 'go for it' in that it looks like a pole barn."

McWilliams concurred that the pole barn design was also troublesome to him, noting there are several new garages in downtown Madison that have a more pleasant appearance and requested that Marshall consider offering a different option.

"It doesn't have to be a historic look," Board chair Mike Pittman added. "It has be something probably that doesn't look so much like a pole barn with a garage door in front. I think that's what's holding everyone up. I like the brick in the front but you've still got a pole barn."

Smith said, "We do have other pole barns around town but oftentimes they're in alleys. They are not on a major street" and the location of this new structure is "going to be a pretty visible pole barn," in that people traveling north on West Street will see it as they drive towards Michigan Road, one of more traveled areas in the city.

In other applications, the board approved a certificate of appropriateness at 1018 Park Avenue to replace aluminum siding with vinyl siding, to replace a shingle roof with a metal roof, and replace wood windows with vinyl windows because of owner Andy Crabtree's effort to make repairs to the exterior of the home.

HDBR guidelines state that vinyl or aluminum siding is not appropriate, that roofing materials be compatible with existing or original roofing material, and replacement windows must match existing historic elements as much as possible.

Even though the changes proposed in the application do not meet the HDBR standard, the home is a 1960 structure that's considered non-contributing to the historic district. Rogers said the work may not meet the guidelines "putting that building back into a condition where as you're coming into town, you say, 'Isn't that a cute little house' as opposed to the little rundown structure it was. And even though it doesn't meet the guidelines because the house is non-contributing and 100 years newer than a lot of houses we have in our town, I think that he should be allowed to put vinyl on it."

Two applications with requests to build gazebos also were approved — one by Donnie Vaughn at 710 West Second Street and one by Judy Staicer at 518 East Second Street. Vaughn will be building a 15-foot by 15-foot wooded gazebo with stone fireplace in the backyard of his home. Staicer will be installing a 9-foot by 12-foot metal gazebo and a 10-foot by 13-foot deck in the backyard of her home.

Madison Parks Director Scott Klein was also at the meeting to provide plans for the sun shades that will be installed at Hargan-Matthews Park, a project initiated by the Great Cookie Caper fund-raiser in which $5,200 was raised during the Nights Before Christmas Candlelight Tour of Homes in 2022. The parks department included $8,500 in its budget this year to "cover the gap" in overall funding for the project.

"As you know, in the summertime it gets brutally hot down there, and it can be a little bit overwhelming," Klein said of the park. "It's a shade structure to help protect the kids playing at the playground."

Nicole Schell, the city's director of planning, said there was no approval needed by HDBR but since the park is in downtown Madison she wanted the board to be informed to ensure there are no objections.

"I think it's a great idea," said Pittman.

In other action, the board approved a rule of procedure amendment of $2 per sign that will be charged to applicants if their applications are deemed incomplete.

HMI to offer tours of St. Michael the Archangel beginning in May

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Historic Madison Inc. will be offering public tours of St. Michael the Archangel, the oldest the Gothic Revival building in Indiana, starting on May 11.

Tours will take place on the second Saturday of each month from May through October (May 11, June 8, July 13, August 10, September 14, and October 12).

St. Michael the Archangel was built as a Catholic Church with the first mass being held at the site on Dec. 22, 1839.

It remained a church until the parishes of Madison were consolidated in 1993.

Historic Madison Inc. has cared for the building for the last 30 years. Although the space is no longer a church, many artifacts connecting to the church remain with the building. The building also includes an 1895 Tracker Organ and unique art glass stained glass windows.

During the guided tour, visitors will learn about the building's architectural significance, the many people who used the space in the past and see the ongoing preservation work being accomplished by HMI staff and contractors.

Tours will last approximately an hour. Some stairs will be required but can be limited if needed.

The building is not air conditioned and, depending on the weather, may be warm.

Guided tours will start at St. Michael the Archangel located at 519 E Third Street at the corner of Third Street and St. Michael Avenue.

Tickets are $10 for adults. Students and HMI members are free. Tickets can be purchased at the door. No reservations are required.

Proceeds from the tours will benefit preservation efforts for the site.

Call Jessica Spiess, HMI director of programs, for more information at 812-265-2967.

HMI's free architectural walking tours start in May

Adjustment in Chautauqua footprint hopes to alleviate Main Street traffic

BY BOB DEMAREE

For several decades, the Madison Chautauqua Festival of Art has had a presence on Vine Street between Second and Main streets but that's likely to change this fall when a slight change will be made to the event's footprint.

Kara Hinze, Chautauqua coordinator, reported at Monday's Visit Madison Inc. (VMI) board of directors meeting about plans to open up Second Street for through traffic with a slight change in the festival's footprint due of heavy traffic patterns on Main Street.

"To alleviate that hopefully we can pull some of the travel off Main Street so people can head west because otherwise there is no other route to go west downtown" during the Chautauqua, she said. Vaughn Drive is being utilized by the festival, First Street is blocked by the Lanier Mansion, and Third Street is designated one-way heading east.

VMI Executive Director Andrew Forrester said the change was requested by the city of Madison "with that traffic pattern in mind. The (Chautauqua) committee has done a good job of taking a look at what the request was, and adapting, and saying this is what we'll give a try. I appreciate the city's conversations with the committee about it."

Hinze said she anticipates going before the Board of Public Works and Safety by the end of May for approval of the event plan. With Vine Street between Second and Main streets no longer part of the Chautauqua footprint, the event will instead utilize First Street between Elm and Broadway streets, where she said committee member Kara Fox told them there had been artist booths many years ago. "It's not something that's never happened," said Hinze.

"By moving those artists to that block we'll be able to maintain the numbers and the spaces we have been, and we might even be able to grow a few," she said.

However, she said changing the footprint is "no small change" for the Chautauqua, even if it's just changing from one street to another. The footprint has remained the same for a long time, and this change will require new maps and updates to most Chautauqua materials.

Applications for this year's Chautauqua went live in January, and so far more than 200 applications have been submitted. "Whatever we did last year, everyone was happy with it and they want to come back which is good," said Hinze. Currently, there are 73 confirmed artists. Last year's Chautauqua had 203 artists.

Hinze said the question has been asked whether the Chautauqua would ever want to have a goal of 300 artists. "I don't think we're ever wanting to grow to that point," she said, noting beyond that it would be difficult for the Chautauqua committee to maintain the current level of hospitality with the artists.

"There's a point that we don't want to grow too large," she said, stating that 200 to 225 is a good number that "allows the committee to really serve the artist" and maintain hospitality for a "good variety but not too overwhelming for the area."

This year's Madison Chautauqua Festival of Art will be on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28-29.

IN OTHER REPORTS

- Erin Kindle, coordinator of Madison Ribberfest BBQ & Blues, provided an update on plans for this year's event, noting the goal is to sell 3,500 tickets which is an increase from last year's 3,376 total.

Ticket prices have decreased from what they were last year. Advance tickets until June 30 are $45 with food coupons (while supply lasts), July 1-Aug. 15 $45 without food coupons, and then $50 on the weekend of the event Aug. 16-17 online and at the gate.

Last year, tickets were $60 at the gate while two types of presale tickets were $50. Kindle said the reduction is a response to feedback that "pricing was too high" last year. "We're letting people know we're listening to them and we're making the adjustment," she said.

- Terri Suiter, coordinator of the Nights Before Christmas Candlelight Tour of Homes, said she's close to having the homes lined up for this year's event which will again be the last weekend in November and first weekend in December.

Supreme Court seems skeptical of Trump's claim of absolute immunity

BY MARK SHERMAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court seems highly skeptical of former President Donald Trump's claim of absolute immunity from prosecution, but it's less clear that the justices are headed for a quick resolution.

Chief Justice John Roberts was among at least five members of the court Thursday who appeared likely to reject the claim of absolute immunity that would stop special counsel Jack Smith's prosecution of Trump on charges he conspired to overturn his 2020 election loss to Democrat Joe Biden.

Arguments were in their second hour by late morning.

The timing of the Supreme Court's decision could be as important as the outcome. Trump, the presumptive 2024 Republican presidential nominee, has been pushing to delay the trial until after the November election, and the later the justices issue their decision, the more likely he is to succeed.

Justices Neil Gorsuch and Brett Kavanaugh, two of Trump's three high court appointees, suggested that former presidents might have some immunity and that in this case, lower courts might have to sort out whether that applied to Trump. That could further delay a trial.

Justice Amy Coney Barrett, the other Trump appointee, seemed less open to arguments advanced by Trump lawyer D. John Sauer.

Smith's team is asking for a speedy resolution. The court typically issues its last opinions by the end of June, about four months before the election.

Trump, the first former president charged with crimes, had said he wanted to be at the Supreme Court on Thursday. Instead, he was in a courtroom in New York, where he is standing trial on charges that he falsified business records to keep damaging information from voters when he directed hush money payments to a former porn star to keep quiet her claims that they had a sexual encounter.

Trump's lawyers argue that former presidents are entitled to absolute immunity for their official acts. Otherwise, they say, politically motivated prosecutions of former occupants of the Oval Office would become routine and presidents couldn't function as the commander in chief if they had to worry about criminal charges.

Lower courts have rejected those arguments, including a unanimous three-judge panel on an appeals court in Washington, D.C.

The election interference conspiracy case brought by Smith in Washington is just one of four criminal cases confronting Trump.

Free women's self-defense workshop on May 1

BY THE COURIER STAFF

There will be a free women's self-defense workshop on Wednesday, May 1, from 5 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. at the Madison-Jefferson County Public Library, 420 West Main Street, Madison.

The workshop will instruct women on how to keep themselves safe and know how to react to safety safety issues and threats. Subjects to be covered include tips on increasing awareness, avoiding dangerous situations, and recognizing when and how to react to a potential safety issue.

Basic self-defense physical moves will also be taught. Norton King's Daughters' Health Wellness Coordinator Heather Foy will lead the class. Participants should be at least 13 years old. No registration is required.

Indiana GOP candidates for governor challenge each other's records

BY ISABELLA VOLMERT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — Five gubernatorial candidates sought to undermine each other's records during a final debate Tuesday night ahead of Indiana's May 7 GOP primary, but took few shots at the absent U.S. Sen. Mike Braun, who is considered the front-runner of the crowded field.

Braun, who has former President Donald Trump's endorsement, skipped the event and instead attended a vote in Washington on a $95 billion foreign aid package for U.S. allies including Israel, Ukraine and Taiwan.

On the debate stage, his electoral rivals largely tried to pitch their experience in government as an advantage, not a flaw, and played up popular positions among Republican voters including support for the state's abortion ban and opposition to federal immigration policies.

Whoever wins will be the favorite in November's general election, as the state reliably elects Republicans. Tuesday's debate was the last to be televised before the primary vote.

Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch — a familiar name after running twice alongside current Gov. Eric Holcomb, who is barred by term limits from seeking reelection — defended her sweeping proposal to eliminate the state income tax, saying it will be phased in over time and denying she would raise property taxes.

The other candidates called the plan a political gimmick, with former Commerce Secretary Brad Chambers saying, "This is a political talking point if there ever was one."

Crouch ended the most recent fundraising period with $3 million, the most cash on hand of any candidate, but spent only $2.1 million in the first three months of the year. By comparison, Braun has spent over $6 million in 2024.

Chambers' leadership of the the Indiana Economic Development Corporation put him in opponents' sights several times during the debate. He defended the quasi-governmental organization's fostering of a controversial technology hub under construction in central Indiana that proposes to pump water across multiple counties.

Chambers, who has spent $6.7 million on the campaign this year and contributed $8 million to it, was one of the few to take up the opportunity to criticize Braun in his absence, accusing the senator of inaction on the southern border.

Eric Doden, for his part, repeatedly promoted his plan to invest in small towns.

"These are the things we're going to continue to focus on throughout this campaign, not whether a candidate decides to show up or not," he told reporters after the debate.

Doden, also a former commerce secretary, spent $5.2 million in the first three months of this year and last reported having about $250,000 of cash on hand.

While the candidates have often attacked Holcomb's tenure, only a few did so Tuesday. The governor, whose popularity took a hit among conservative voters opposed to restrictions he implemented during the COVID-19 pandemic, has not made an endorsement in the primary.

But former Attorney General Curtis Hill attacked Crouch, as Holcomb's lieutenant governor, over mask mandates, saying she deserves blame for backing them too.

Once a rising star in Indiana politics, Hill has struggled to keep up with other contenders' fundraising. Hill lost the Republican delegation nomination in 2020 following allegations that he groped four women in 2018.

Also running is Jamie Reitenour, a political novice who promised Tuesday to appoint the leader of the Hamilton County Moms For Liberty as the state's secretary of education.

Braun voted no on the foreign aid package, which passed overwhelmingly in the Senate. In a statement earlier in the evening, Braun said he wanted policy on immigration to be included in the package.

"I was looking forward to sharing my vision with Hoosiers at tonight's debate but Chuck Schumer has called the Senate into session," the statement said.

His absence at the debate fueled criticism by some opponents that he has put politics first following a missed vote in the Senate to attend a campaign event.

It wasn't that long ago that Second Street was a strip of vacant or underutilized buildings and lots, many in disrepair, and not really contributing to the quality of life in Madison.

Obviously that has changed dramatically in recent years.

One of the core drivers is the brand new Chandler Hotel, sprung to life in what was originally a livery stable, later a bottling plant and most recently a newspaper warehouse. It's owned by Matt & Daniel Chandler, and its creation has been a rewarding labor of love for the pair, as well as, it turns out, a nicely viable business.

The Chandler is a luxury boutique hotel in the very heart of downtown Madison, within easy walking distance to multiple music venues, restaurants, the riverfront, shopping district and much more. It features eight suites, each with its own unique character, and a delightful rooftop garden area available to guests.

"We sort of rediscovered Madison a few years ago," relates Matt Chandler. "I had connections here from when my dad worked for Grote back in the 70s, and then Daniel and I had a place in Vevay and we would come to Madison a lot."

"Right away we noticed something different and special about the town," continues Daniel. "We got a very progressive and inclusive vibe from places like Village Lights Bookstore, and there was just this buzz of energy and small town charm that really attracted us. We could see the growth potential."

Matt adds, "We were very early adopters of the Airbnb concept, and we started renting a cabin we owned out in the county. It was very popular, so we built another next to it. We really like the hospitality business, and we wanted to keep expanding. But we wanted to go bigger than just another house or a duplex. We were thinking hotel!

"As luck would have it, we got to know Curt Jacobs and he said, 'I have just the place for you.' It was an old building he owned on Second that the newspaper had used for paper storage. We took one look and Daniel just turned to me and said, This is it!

"But I have to admit, I was still hesitant," continues Matt. "So Jessica Butler had an idea and she said, 'Call Brian Martin.' She knew that once we caught his infectious energy we'd be hooked on the project, and she was right."

"Brian's creativity combined with our vision was the perfect blend," adds Daniel. "We couldn't be happier with the results of the project. And we have been super pleased with the success so far of the hotel business. Our occupancy rate is excellent, and people really seem to appreciate the special brand of luxury and attention to detail we offer."

So what's next for Matt and Daniel? Well, glad you asked. You only have to look about two blocks east for the answer. They recently purchased the large building on the northwest corner of Jefferson and Second, formerly home to Carlson Sign Co. And they have big plans!

Matt explains, "It will actually be two separate businesses. At the front will be an upscale wine bar. And the back two floors will be eight lanes of duckpin bowling. Duckpin is an easier, more accessible form of bowling, where you don't need special shoes, and the balls are smaller and easier to roll. Very much a family activity."

The wine bar and bowling lane project will be breaking ground very soon and will likely open some time in 2025. There's lots of things happening on Second Street in the years to come, and the Chandlers are poised to be in the very heart of it!

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

In addition to all the consistent live music at all the bars and clubs in town — special shout out to Rivertown Grill and The Central for really keeping the flame alive — a couple of other events jump out at me this week. Both of them are Jane Vonderheide related. Jane is the driving force behind the House of Jane music shows, and she has one of her classic, intimate barber shop concerts this Thursday, plus a very unique Saturday event at Red Bicycle Hall. Saturday night is Jane's first ever Dance Party, and it is shaping up to be a booty-shakin' good time. Jane has been collecting everybody's favorite dance tunes for months, and she procured a giant revolving disco ball to suspend over the dance floor. They'll be talking about this one for a long time! Tickets for the Thursday songwriter session and the Saturday dance party are available at MadTixEvents.com .

Charlie Rohlfing is a retired advertising man and partner in The Red Bicycle Hall music venue. Look for his distinctive fedora bobbing above the crowd, anywhere live local music is happening.

Stark said he hasn't received any indication on when an announcement might come on the SBA Declaration.

Meanwhile, the clean-up and recovery continues for both residents and businesses in Trimble County. Construction workers and roofers are busy in Milton on a daily basis.

Stark also said there remains "quite a bit of tree damage" that continues to be cleaned up.

"All the roadways are clear" and debris is being burned at the Milton City Park.

Elsewhere, officials at General Butler State Resort Park confirmed on Monday that the final family of more than 150 storm displaced residents who had sought shelter relief at the park following the storm had transitioned off the property.

Some were able to move back into their homes, others were now staying with family and friends and some had simply relocated.

The same tornado that crossed the Ohio River also severely impacted several homes in Hanover and the Route 56 Campground in Milton Township a half-mile east of Sandy Beach in Jefferson Count, Indiana, as well as portions of Carroll County, Kentucky, and Switzerland County, Indiana.

The trolleys, introduced to Madison about 40 years ago, are showing their age. They were purchased for $40,000 in 2005 by Jim Grant, Ann and Rick Lostutter and Dave Adams from Keith Brubaker and Dave Daghir. The trolleys are now owned by Dave and Kay Lou Adams.

Forrester said a short-term agreement on the trolley needs to be developed until there can be a more permanent arrangement. "For right now, I think it's important for us to step up and help out, and serve our residents and guests," he said, noting VMI gets many requests for use of trolleys including wedding activities, private events and more.

Board member Paul Nicholson said, "One of things you have to consider here, we can't task those trolleys with as much demand as there is because those trolleys are tired iron. And the worst thing you could do is have all this booking out there, and this summer those things die. You can shoot a dead horse but those trolleys are very, very tired."

Forrester said the trolleys have been "well-loved and well-used. That's part of my concern about doing too much right now. We need to put some kind of parameters on keeping them in the downtown area to know what their capabilities are."

Although there are two trolley vehicles, Forrester said he avoids booking both of them at the same time because he wants "to always have a backup" to ensure that obligations can be met for trolley usage "just knowing what the mechanics are" for the current trolleys "to make sure those guests get to that wedding destination or to the conference, or whatever it may be."

Forrester is hopeful that in utilizing infrastructure funds through the innkeeper's tax increase that "we could move quickly on some of this with a newer trolley and acquisition." Ownership moving forward could be decided if and when the vehicles are replaced.

"I want to be very realistic about what we're getting into with this potentially, but Dave has done a great job over the years taking that on when nobody else would," said Forrester, who considers "this as a good transition point" for the trolley.

Forrester estimates that a new trolley would cost $200,000, "depending on the bells and whistles," which is five times more than the group paid to purchase two trolleys in 2005.

For now, Forrester wants to collaborate with Adams on the current trolleys while considering "what the future looks like. Right now, we're working on a short-term solution, but there might also be a medium-term solution then a long-term solution that would be ordering a brand new trolley" developing three tracks concurrently to determine how the trolleys will be used in the future to benefit Jefferson County tourism.

The Dangers of Not Being Prepared for Retirement

Layin' it on the line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

A Cautionary Tale

The golden years of retirement are often envisioned as a time of leisure, relaxation, and the freedom to pursue hobbies and passions. However, this idyllic picture may become a grim reality for those who haven't adequately prepared for their financial future. The absence of proper retirement savings, life insurance, and planning for unexpected health crises can leave you vulnerable in ways that may compromise your quality of life and burden your loved ones. This article will delve into the dangers and consequences of not being prepared for retirement.

The Peril of Running Out of Money

One of the most immediate concerns for those entering retirement is the fear of running out of money. Without a stable income, the expenses can quickly eat into your savings. Fixed annuities can act as a safety net by providing a guaranteed income stream, thereby mitigating the risk of outliving your savings. A lack of such financial instruments can result in reduced living standards, reliance on social security benefits alone, or the necessity to return to work at an advanced age.

The Risk of Inadequate Life Insurance

Life insurance is more than just a means to cover funeral expenses. It acts as a financial safety net for your dependents, ensuring they can maintain their standard of living in your absence. An inadequate or non-existent life insurance policy puts your family at financial risk, potentially saddling them with debt or forcing the sale of assets to cover living expenses and liabilities. On the other hand, a well-thought-out life insurance policy may provide a tax-free inheritance to your heirs and even offer living benefits that can be utilized in emergencies or for long-term care.

Health Crisis and Medical Bills

One of the unforeseen challenges that can derail your retirement plans is a health crisis. While Medicare may cover some healthcare costs, it often falls short of covering specialized treatments, long-term care, and other medical expenses. An unexpected health event may result in substantial out-of-pocket costs, thereby depleting your savings and financial resources. Options like annuities with riders for long-term care or whole life insurance policies can provide financial buffer in such situations, saving you and your family from financial hardship.

The Domino Effect of Poor Planning

The lack of planning for retirement doesn't just affect you; it has a ripple effect on your family and dependents. The ramifications are extensive, whether it's burdening your children with caregiving responsibilities because you can't afford professional care, or depriving your spouse of financial security in your absence. Not to mention, the psychological toll it takes on you, knowing that you haven't adequately prepared for inevitable life events can be crushing.

Being unprepared for retirement is a gamble that places your financial security and that of your loved ones at risk. While it's easy to adopt an "it won't happen to me" mentality, the reality is that life is unpredictable. Financial products like fixed annuities and comprehensive life insurance policies offer more than peace of mind; they provide a financial roadmap to navigate the uncertainties of life. Investing in such options isn't just planning for retirement, it's planning for life—with all its unpredictability's.

The road to a secure and comfortable retirement starts with taking the right steps today. So don't delay—reach out to a trusted financial advisor or insurance agent to start planning for a better tomorrow.

Peril of Running Out of Money: One of the most significant risks in retirement is outliving your savings. Fixed annuities can provide a guaranteed income stream, helping to mitigate this risk.

Risk of Inadequate Life Insurance: A lack of sufficient life insurance can put your family's financial well-being in jeopardy, potentially forcing the sale of assets or incurring debt. A well-structured life insurance policy can provide a safety net and offer tax-free benefits.

Health Crisis and Medical Bills: Medicare often falls short of covering all healthcare costs in retirement. A health crisis can be financially devastating, but options like annuities with long-term care riders or whole life insurance can provide additional coverage.

The Domino Effect of Poor Planning: Lack of preparation for retirement impacts not only you but also your family and dependents. It can lead to both financial and emotional burdens on your loved ones.

MADISON COURIER BOYS BASKETBALL PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Healthy Craig leads Switzerland County back to the top

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Coming off a freshman season where he averaged more than 20 points per game as one of the best players in the area, a lot was expected of Switzerland County senior Cam Craig. But it wasn't meant to be.

A broken foot just two games into Craig's sophomore season sent him to the sidelines for the rest of that year and there were serious questions about whether Craig would ever return to to the early form he showed as a freshman.

It took awhile for Craig to fully recover, but those concerns were unfounded as the 6-foot-4 forward proved this season that he was not only back but better than ever.

Craig averaged nearly a double-double and led Switzerland County to its first sectional championship in more than a decade to earn this year's Madison Courier Boys Basketball Player of the Year. His story of perseverance in the face of adversity serves as an inspiration for all.

Nina Campbell

Switzerland County junior Cam Craig is the Madison Courier Boys Basketball Player of the Year. He averaged 25.2 points and 9.8 rebounds per game while leading the Pacers to their first sectional title since 2013.

"It was definitely tough, but it's one of those things where I feel like you have to trust in God," Craig said. "The world is gonna throw things at you that you can't imagine. I feel like it's one of those things where you have to just trust the man upstairs and let Him take care of it."

After such an impressive freshman season, it was reasonable to believe that Craig would return for his sophomore season as one of the premiere players in the southern part of the state.

But midway through his second game, while battling to keep a ball in play, Craig landed awkwardly on his foot and felt it let go. The pain was instant.

The diagnosis was a stress fracture and initially doctors believed that rest could solve the problem. After being sidelined for a month and half he returned to the court against Southwestern and played nearly two quarters before his biggest fears were realized.

Southwestern nets 4 honorees and coach of the year

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

It was reasonable to think that Southwestern might not match its stellar 21-win season from 2022-23, especially after losing two starters, one of whom was a 1,000-point scorer.

But while such thought may have been reasonable, it also turned out to be foolish, proving you can never doubt the Rebels' resolve.

Southwestern ripped off another 21-4 season in 2023-24 — two of those losses coming to the eventual state champions in Class 3A and Class 2A — so it should be no surprise that the Rebels dominate the Madison Courier postseason awards.

Switzerland County's Cam Craig is the Player of the Year, but Southwestern's Zac Nussbaum is Coach of the Year for the second-straight year and senior Jamison Lewis, who reached 1,000 career points, is a First Team selection after averaging 18.0 points and 6.2 rebounds per game while shooting 46% on 3-pointers. Classmate Peyton Cloud (13.6 ppg, 4.0 rpg), junior Landon Kidwell (11.4 ppg, 6.5 rpg) and sophomore

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Madison routs Charlestown to reach .500

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Bodie Heckler drove in four runs and Madison rolled over Charlestown 14-4 in baseball Tuesday on road.

Heckler was 2-for-4 at the plate for the Cubs who had six different players collect hits.

Matt McCarty had a double and an RBI, Colton O'Neal and Elliot Kozenski each had a hit and an RBI, Kade Fink had a hit and scored four runs, and Mitchell Cammack had a hit and scored twice.

McCarty also picked up the win on the mound pitching all six innings and allowing four runs on seven hits with a strikeout and no walks.

Madison, now 6-6 on the season, hosts Batesville on Friday and South Dearborn for two games on Saturday.

The Cubs travel to Scottsburg next Tuesday.

TRIMBLE SPLITS 2

Trimble County lost 12-2 to Gallatin County on Tuesday but rebounded for a 13-3 win over Bellevue on Wednesday.

The Raiders were limited to just two hits in the loss to Gallatin with Brayden Wilson and Dylan Penick each getting a hit and an RBI. Jacob Sullivan took the loss in relief.

Trimble scored eight runs in the second inning to beat up on Bellevue on Wednesday.

Penick was 3-for-4 with an RBI and two runs, Jacoby Clark was 3-for-3 with an RBI and two runs, Nolan Hunt had a double and four RBIs, Coltin Humphreys had two hits, an RBI and a run and Liam Taylor had a hit and two RBIs.

Wilson picked up the win after giving up two earned runs on seven hits in five innings with seven strikeouts.

Trimble, now 3-12 overall and 0-5 in the 31st District, hosted Gallatin County on Thursday and faces Williamstown and Richmond Model at Williamstown on Saturday. The Raiders then host Ludlow on Monday and hosts Eminence next Tuesday.

CARROLL FALLS TO OWEN

Carroll County dropped a 7-3 loss at home to Owen County on Wednesday.

Carroll out-hit the Rebels 8-6. Bryce Furnish had two hits and an RBI for Carroll, Coy Willhoite had two hits, Dalten Wilson had a double, an RBI and a run, Aden Stephenson had a double and a run, and Branon Battaglia and Landon Miller each had a hit.

Braden Stephenson pitched five innings and suffered the loss.

Carroll, now 12-6 overall and 4-1 1st District, traveled to Owen County on Thursday, travels to Williamstown on Friday and hosts Henry County on Tuesday.

Carroll County girls assistant basketball coach Brandon Hicks has been promoted to girls head coach to succeed Scott Anderson, who was hired as athletic director earlier this year.

Hicks takes over as girls varsity hoops head coach at Carroll

BY JENNIFER WILLHOITE
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Carroll County girls basketball assistant Brandon Hicks has been named varsity head coach effective immediately and will hit the ground running with one-on-one workouts and strength conditioning for returning Lady Panthers next week.

Hicks, a varsity assistant to head coach Scott Anderson in recent years, has coached girls and boys basketball over the last 13 years as an assistant while two of his three children played the sport. When Anderson resigned as coach earlier this year to become Carroll County's athletic director, Hicks agreed to take on the bigger role

"I just love working with kids and watching them improve their skills," he said.

Hicks said he had to mull it over before applying for the head coaching position since he will no longer have a child playing basketball for the Panthers. However, his desire to stay involved in athletics and a love for the game helped him make his decision.

"We're going to play an exciting style of basketball that the fans and community will enjoy watching," he pledged.

"I am very excited to turn the program over to Brandon Hicks. His work ethic, coupled with his love of Carroll County, is a combination that will keep this program competitive for years to come," said Anderson. "Our girls program couldn't be in better hands than with Coach Hicks."

The Panthers graduate their primary ball handler and floor general from last season and their leading scorer. Therefore, the identity of the team is still somewhat unknown, but Hicks to improve said one of the keys moving forward defense and he is ready to take on that challenge by having players in for one-on-one workout sessions and spending a lot of time getting stronger the weight room to help fill any voids in the lineup.

"We will be small again so we plan to play an up and down game. We will play fast and shoot a lot of three's," he said. "It's going to be exciting. It's not going to be slow basketball."

Open gym begins next week and Hicks is encouraging anyone interested in playing basketball to attend.

The team will also attend a camp at Transylvania University in June, a program that won the NCAA Division III national championship in 2022-23 and went undefeated in 2022-24 before losing to eventual champion New York University in the national semifinals.

Brandon and his wife, Tessie, live in Carroll County and have a son and two daughters. Son, Austin, played for the Carroll boys and graduated in 2023 and oldest daughter, Madie, was a senior for the Carroll girls this past season.

Trimble softball sweeps Gallatin in 31st District

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Trimble County swept Gallatin County in a pair of 31st District softball games earlier this week.

On Tuesday, Trimble beat Gallatin 4-0 in Warsaw before coming back with a 12-02 win on Wednesday in Bedford.

Alyssa Ritchie went 3-for-3 with an RBI and a run scored for Trimble and Courtney Douglas had a double and an RBI in the Tuesday win. Ritchie also got the win in the circle with three scoreless innings before Jaelynn Holbrook worked the final four innings for the save.

Hannah Chilton was 2-for-3 with a double and five RBIs for Trimble on Wednesday while Jocie Stucker had two hits and an RBI, Shelby Wright had two hits and scored two runs and Alana Washington had a hit, an RBI and a run.

Chilton picked up the win with 13 strikeouts in six innings.

Before the Wednesday win over Gallatin, Trimble played a game with Sacred Heart and lost 6-4. Washington had two hits and an RBI, Douglas had two hits and a run and Wright had a double. Ritchie gave up six unearned runs and took the loss.

Trimble, now 13-8 overall and 4-2 in the 31st District, plays in the All "A" Classic State Finals at Jack C. Fisher Park in Owensboro starting on Saturday.

The Raiders will face Whitefield Academy, Hazard and Jackson County in pool play starting at 8:30 a.m. The survivors of pool play will compete in the trophy round on Sunday.

Trimble then hosts Spencer County on Monday.

Laufer strikes out 10 batters to lead Madison softball

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison softball hammered Jac-Cen-Del but lost to Brownstown and Scottsburg in what has been a busy week for the Cubs.

Emily Laufer tossed a one-hit shutout and the Cubs beat Jac-Cen-Del 15-0 at home on Monday.

Laufer struck out 10 in five innings and also drove in a run and scored twice at the plate. Kylie Montgomery was 3-for-3 with a double, two RBIs and three runs scored, Bailey Owens had a double, three RBIs and two runs scored, Lainie Alexander had a double and three RBIs, and Kallie Eder had a hit, an RBI and two runs.

Madison had 10 hits but dropped a 15-10 decision at Brownstown on Tuesday.

Owens hit her second home run of the season, added a double and drove in four runs to lead the Cubs. Xandria Cable was 3-for-4 with a double, an RBI and a run scored, Laufer was 2-for-4 with a double, two RBIs and two runs, and Caity Dailey had a hit, an RBI and a run.

Madison was held to two hits — singles by Owen and Alexander — in a 4-0 loss at Scottsburg on Wednesday. Laufer struck out nine in six innings but got the loss.

Madison, now 3-10 on the season, hosts Switzerland County on Friday and hosts Charlestown Monday before traveling to Salem next Wednesday.

Siakam leads Pacers offense to even series with Bucks

BY STEVE MEGARGEE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MILWAUKEE — As a former champion on a team without much postseason experience, Pascal Siakam understands what it's going to take for the Indiana Pacers to advance beyond the first round of the playoffs for the first time in a decade.

Siakam's certainly doing his part.

The former Toronto Raptors forward scored 37 points and the Pacers overcame another fantastic first-half performance from Damian Lillard to beat the Milwaukee Bucks 125-108 on Tuesday night and tie their Eastern Conference first-round playoff series at a game apiece.

Game 3 is Friday in Indianapolis.

"We've got to be the hungry team," Siakam said. "We've got to be the team that's coming in and wanting to show something. That's the attitude that we've got to have against those guys, because they've done it before."

The Pacers had plenty of appetite Tuesday as they snapped a 10-game playoff losing streak that began with a Game 7 loss to Cleveland in a 2018 first-round series.

Indiana acquired Siakam in January in part because of his experience as a member of the 2019 Toronto Raptors championship team. He followed up his 36-point performance in Game 1 by shooting 16 of 23 from the floor and finishing with 11 rebounds and six assists on Tuesday.

According to Stats Perform, Siakam is the first NBA player to open a postseason with consecutive 35-point, 10-rebound performances since Wilt Chamberlain in 1967.

"His experience in the playoffs is so valuable," Pacers coach Rick Carlisle said. "He's not a guy that's going to get rattled by anything. Never has once since January, since we got him. He's a guy that people confide in and look up to."

The Pacers needed Siakam to step up because Lillard was once again coming up huge for the Bucks, at least in the first two periods.

Two nights after scoring all 35 of his points in the first half of the Bucks' 109-94 Game 1 victory, Lillard had 26 by halftime Tuesday and finished with 34.

Lillard didn't get enough help with the Bucks once again missing two-time MVP Giannis Antetokounmpo due to a strained left calf. Antetokounmpo hasn't played since he was hurt in an April 9 victory over the Boston Celtics.

Even after Lillard's big early onslaught, the Bucks still trailed 60-55 at halftime. Indiana stayed ahead throughout the second half.

The Pacers led the NBA with 123.3 points per game during the regular season but posted their lowest point total and field-goal percentage (.396) while shooting 8 of 38 on 3-pointers in Game 1. This time, Indiana looked more like the team that won four of five regular-season matchups with the Bucks while scoring at least 122 points in each.

"I thought we struggled execution-wise on the offensive end, and I thought that bled over to the defensive end," Bucks coach Doc Rivers said. "I thought it was more our offense tonight."

Myles Turner scored 22 points and Andrew Nembhard 20 for the Pacers. Tyrese Haliburton had 12 points and 12 assists.

Milwaukee's Brook Lopez scored 22 points and shot 6 of 7 from 3-point range. Khris Middleton scored 15 points.

NCAA approves coach-to-player helmet communication for 2024

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — College football is ready to put the signs away.

The NCAA's playing rules oversight committee on Friday approved the use of coach-to-player helmet communications in games for the 2024 season. The move, in discussion for years, also follows a sign-stealing scandal that rocked the sport and hung over Michigan's championship run in 2023.

The football rules committee last month made a recommendation to allow — but not require — teams at the highest tier of Division I to use radio technology similar to what NFL teams use.

Only one player for each team will be permitted to be in communication with coaches while on the field. A green dot on the back of the helmet will be used to identify that player.

The communication from the coach to the player will be turned off with 15 seconds remaining on the play clock or when the ball is snapped, whichever comes first.

The rules committee had been moving toward coach-to-player communication in recent years, but it was slow to be implement because of concerns that not every school could afford to do it in an equitable way.

During last year's bowl season, teams were permitted to experiment with helmet communication if both sides agreed to it. But no team was forced to use it and that will be the case going forward.

Teams can still chose to signal in plays.

Sign stealing during games is not illegal under NCAA rules, unless it is done with the use of electronic technology.

The NCAA investigated Michigan for using an elaborate impermissible in-person scouting scheme to aid its sign-stealing operation. That case is ongoing, but the Big Ten punished the school by suspending then-head coach Jim Harbaugh for the final three games of the regular season. Michigan finished 15-0 and won the national championship.

The oversight committee also approved the the use of computer tablets to view in-game video in coaching booths, on the sideline and in locker rooms. All team personnel will be allowed to view the tablets during the game.

The rules committee will continue to examine the use of wearable technology that would also allow coaches to send in play calls to the field through an small LED screen that could be wrapped on around a player's wrist.

Proposals for experimental usage of wearable tech much be submitted to the oversight committee by June 15.

The oversight committee also approved implementation of an NFL-style two-minute warning at the end of the second and fourth quarters.

Cincinnati Reds' Elly De La Cruz gestures to teammates after hitting an run-producing ground-rule double during the sixth inning of Wednesday's 7-4 win against the Philadelphia Phillies in Cincinnati.

Espinal drives in 3, as Cincinnanti beats Philadelphia

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Santiago Espinal had three RBIs, reliever Fernando Cruz pitched out of a jam in the seventh inning and the Cincinnati Reds held on for a 7-4 win over the Philadelphia Phillies on Wednesday night.

Will Benson had a solo homer in the third inning. Espinal singled home two as part of a four-run sixth and drove in another with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. That came on the heels of a 3-for-4 night for Espinal on Tuesday that included his first homer as a Red.

Cincinnati starter Nick Lodolo went five innings, allowing three runs and six hits while striking out four and walking three.

For the second straight night, Cruz came in with one out and stranded Phillies runners on second and third. Cruz struck out Edmundo Sosa with a splitter and induced a fly ball to right from pinch-hitter Brandon Marsh that Benson tracked down at the wall.

Elly De La Cruz had three hits and three stolen bases, increasing his major league-leading total to 15. In the eighth, he singled, stole second and third and scored on a fly ball by Spencer Steer.

"The way he's handling it is everything," Bell said. "He continues to work. He understands the situation. He's not just aimlessly running out there. He understands the pitchers who are on the mound, what's he's up against and then ability just taking over."

PHILLIES 7, REDS 0

Ranger Suárez allowed two hits in seven innings and Kody Clemens hit a three-run homer as the Philadelphia Phillies extended their winning streak to seven games with a 7-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds on Monday night.

Suárez (4-0) ran his scoreless streak to 25 innings. He's won his last four starts, including a 112-pitch shutout against Colorado last Tuesday. This time, he yielded two singles, struck out five and walked one.

Gregory Soto and Jeff Hoffman completed the two-hitter for Philadelphia's fourth shutout this season, tying Cleveland for most in the majors.

Cincinnati was blanked for the first time.

Philadelphia manager Rob Thomson said after the complete game less than a week ago, he planned to limit Suárez to 80 pitches. The left-hander came out after 88.

Hunter Greene (0-2) permitted four runs on seven hits and struck out seven in seven innings for the Reds.

REDS 8, PHILLIES 1

Elly De La Cruz hit a two-run home run, Christian Encarnacion-Strand went 3 for 4 with two RBIs and the Cincinnati Reds ended the Philadelphia Phillies' seven-game win streak with an 8-1 victory on Tuesday night.

Cincinnati's Santiago Espinal also had three hits including a solo homer in the eighth inning, his first since July 29. Fernando Cruz (1-1) pitched 2/3 of an inning in relief.

Encarnacion-Strand's RBI double tied the score in the bottom half.

The Phillies got two hits through 4 1/3 innings against Andrew Abbott, who was facing them for the second time this month. They had the bases loaded with nobody out in the fifth but couldn't score as Abbott and Cruz combined to end the threat.

De La Cruz's seventh home run of the season to deep left-center field in the fifth extended Cincinnati's lead to 7-1, equaling the total runs allowed by the Phillies in their previous four games. De La Cruz stole his 12th base, tied for the league lead.

He also made a sliding catch of Rojas' pop fly in short left in the seventh and started an inning-ending double play in the sixth.

Payne rejoins Calipari to help coach at Arkansas

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Kenny Payne was hired Thursday as associate head coach at Arkansas under John Calipari.

Payne was fired last month after going 12-52 in two seasons as the head coach at Louisville, his alma mater.

Before that, he spent 10 years as an assistant at Kentucky under Calipari, helping the Wildcats win the national championship in 2012, play for the 2014 title and reach four Final Fours. Payne also has been an assistant at Oregon and for the NBA's New York Knicks.

As associate head coach at Kentucky from 2014 to 2020, Payne helped the Wildcats consistently land highly ranked recruiting classes. His 2023 recruiting class at Louisville was ranked in the top six nationally by both Rivals and 247Sports.

That recruiting prowess will immediately be put to the test. There currently is one player listed on Arkansas' roster.

Today's Puzzle Solved

Sex offender lives in the neighborhood

Dear Amy: I have a neighbor who was previously convicted of a sexual offense involving a "child." He served time in jail.

I don't know the exact circumstances, but I do understand that the term "child" may include a person as young as an infant and as old as a teenager.

The sexual offender is married with two young children.

I know that he and his wife want to keep his history private.

However, the other neighbors around where I live are not aware of the situation, and their kids play and interact with the family.

Do I need to inform the unknowing neighbors about his status as a sex offender, or should I remain silent?

I'd appreciate your advice.

— Uncertain

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

Dear Uncertain: You don't say how you know about this offense, but you should take it as a given that these neighbors don't want others to know that he is a convicted sexual offender. But this is not up to them.

Convicted sex offenders are assigned a status: level one, two or three. Level one is considered "low risk of reoffense" and level three "high risk of reoffense." Each state maintains a sex offender registry.

You can check the registry within your ZIP code to see if your neighbor is registered and what the classification is. The reason the registry exists is because people should know if sex offenders live in the community because of the need to protect children from predators.

Wearing this virtual scarlet letter is the ongoing consequence of committing a sex crime against a child.

Your neighbors should reveal the offender's conviction, and if he is classified as low-risk, they should reveal that and explain the circumstances — for instance, if he was 19 and had a sexual relationship with a person under the age of consent in his state.

In short, I am suggesting that the convicted offender and his wife do the ethical thing by notifying others of his criminal status.

They most likely won't do that, and so yes, you should let parents in your circle know.

People notified should make every effort to independently verify the information through a neutral source, such as the sex offender registry. (Check nsopw.gov.)

Siblings' estrangement is a tangle over money

Dear Amy: My brother and I are both in our 70s. We've only spoken once in the last three years. We lived miles apart for much of our lives but kept in touch. After our father passed, our mother sold their home. My father had previously told my brother that when they sold the house, he wanted to give a certain amount of money to each of us.

Our mother did not honor our father's wishes but did give us each a smaller amount. Years later, she deposited a good sum of money into his account but asked him not to tell me. Mom later called the bank and asked for the money back. My brother was angry but approved it and then stopped speaking to her. My mother moved closer to me, and I was her sole caretaker for seven years until she moved into assisted living. She spent the rest of her money paying for her care. My brother thinks I got more money from her than he did, which is not true.

He also expected me to give him money from the sale of my home because I had gotten more than the asking price.

I had sent him $1,000. I also sent him over $5,000 when he needed emergency dental care. I wondered why he never returned my calls until I found out from his estranged wife that he had expected to receive a lot more money from me from the sale of my house.

AMY DICKINSON
ASK AMY

I wrote him a letter, reminding him of the money I had given him.

Two years later, I went to visit him, and he told me how he thought my daughter and I had gotten more money from our mother. I explained that wasn't the case, and I thought we had come to an understanding. I never heard from him, and a year later when our uncle died, I called to let him know but could only leave messages. I flew back for the funeral and expected to see him, but he didn't show. I know he is alive. My friends tell me I've done my part and now the ball is in his court. What do you think?

— Confused Sibling

Dear Confused: I agree with your friends. Your repeated efforts to connect with your brother only seem to bring up new and unfounded charges about money he claims he is entitled to. Your assertions and kind corrections and reassurance seem to have no positive effect on him. Your periodic bids to connect go unanswered. Yes, the ball is in his court. You should not expect him to pick it up and toss it to you, however. Now is the time for you to reckon with this loss.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Being as true and authentic as possible may bring you a renewed sense of achievement. Use your inner guidance to make a commitment, then follow through. Your day could be brightened by a pleasant surprise or a romantic moment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Just focus on what's most important for achieving happiness. If things don't work out, consider taking another shot. You have the building blocks of greatness, have confidence in your abilities and you could go much further.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — You may have focused on things that most resonate with you. If something seems too good to be true, spend time exploring it deeper rather than solely relying on emotions to lead you. Release innuendos and speak from the heart.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — You may find yourself immersed with people who have an adventurous nature or competitive streak. Put effort towards strengthening your casual friendships to develop a deeper understanding of each other's varying perspectives and experiences.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Someone eager to do something important may benefit from further preparation. You might feel inclined to step things up to advance in your endeavors. A beautiful partnership could be available to you but acknowledge any differences.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Special moments can often come out of challenging situations. Take time to visualize all the bright and positive aspects of your life. Disregard the distractions that may just block the light from revealing and illuminating your way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Accomplishments come in many different sizes and colors with unique experiences. Being a success in life might be more about happy relationships than lots of money. You might have one or the other or opt to go after both.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Trying is the prerequisite to success and without it, you can never succeed. Don't allow yourself to become discouraged after comparing yourself to someone successful. Be inspired and motivated by them and take inspiration from their practices.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Your tasks could become a special joy. Prioritize them in order of importance to get them all completed on time. Embrace the opportunity to resolve any misunderstandings as a way to conjure up harmony and consensus.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — It may be time to have an evening of fun. You might put your whole heart and soul into your pleasurable activities and creative projects. You could find yourself being recognized as deserving of extra attention for your extraordinary traits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — Strive for thoughtful action that's grounded in harmony and positivity. Take responsibility for the part you play in every situation and commit to doing better in the future. Don't allow yourself to be weighed down by negativity.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — Great relationships can be built with strong connections and healthy boundaries. Remain respectful of everyone while being open to and flexible with their way of doing things. Allow yourself to express sympathy and creativity.

ASTROLOGY

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Apply your special skills to a community project and you may get acknowledgement for your efforts. Cleaning your space or planting some flowers may be all you need to do. Hidden treasures in the home could bring back fond memories.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Be proactive about achieving your purpose but be sure to include any long-term desires in your plans. Remember you may need to be in community to thrive. Enjoy receiving encouragement and support at the most advantageous time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — There's typically a place for everything when you've dedicated a place for everything. A little organization and straightening up of your environment may go a long way while alleviating frustrations and making your life more serene.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Some people stay in your heart long after they have gone. Friends might relocate to various parts of the world or someone who once impressed you with their knowledge might transition to a different path. Find a good time to reach out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Learn to recognize the difference between what's impossible and what is merely difficult. You may go to extreme lengths to accomplish something but realize that it is more beneficial to wait until everything falls into place.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — Some of your ambitions may appear out of reach. Don't let the fear of rejection prevent you from pursuing your wildest dreams. There's always a possibility of someone saying "yes" even if you've heard multiple "no's."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) — Sometimes it's more beneficial to welcome help from others who are more than capable of doing something just as well, if not better. Someone may have the ability to perform tasks without continual oversight and constant direction.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) — Testing your skills on something new might reveal your hidden strengths or offer some insights into where you could improve. This could be a good day to organize your space and sort through important paperwork or track your finances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) — Lots of people crave a simple and serene life that allows them to find joy in the small things. Navigating obstacles that occur in life may be both invigorating and insightful. Address serious topics with a level head to sustain positive relationships.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Be attentive towards your basic needs and desires while also contributing to meaningful causes. Keep in mind that values might change over the years as you budget for your future. Stay focused on your overall goal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) — You may want to have more influence on outcomes but might realize that it's not always possible. Remain composed and open if your authority is ever questioned. Get in touch with your creative side that needs an outlet for expression.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) — You may be ready to take action on something that only you could imagine. Others may not commit themselves or go along with your decisions, and that's okay. Be patient as you continue to develop your visions.

Clark close to $28M deal with Nike

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Caitlin Clark appears to be on the cusp of setting another record.

The most prolific scorer in NCAA Division I history and the No. 1 overall pick in the WNBA draft will continue her association with Nike by signing a $28 million contract that spans eight years and includes a signature shoe.

The Wall Street Journal and The Athletic reported the pending deal, citing unnamed people familiar with negotiations between the sportswear giant and Clark's agents.

Excel Sports Management, which represents Clark, declined to comment. Nike did not immediately respond to a request for comment from The Associated Press.

Clark's initial name, image and likeness deal, signed in 2022, expired at the end of the 2023-24 season.

The new deal would be the richest sponsorship contract for a women's basketball player.

After averaging 31.6 points and leading the Hawkeyes to a second straight national championship game, Clark was drafted No. 1 by the Indiana Fever on April 15. She'll earn a $76,000 salary as a rookie.

NETS

Brady Cook (10.2 ppg, 4.3 rpg) were all three Second Team selections.

Craig's impressive near double-double of 25.2 points and 9.8 rebounds per game lead what might arguably be the strongest First Team in Madison Courier POY history with the other four players easily earning the top award in any other year.

Four of the five selections are 1,000 point scorers with the fifth likely to reach that milestone next year. Two graduate as their school's career scoring leader, a club Craig will likely join next season. And three of the players posted 40-point games this season including one 50-point night.

Along with Craig and Lewis, Shawe's Philip Kahn blew up the Hilltoppers' record books by averaging 23.8 points per game and setting marks for career points (1,504) and points in a game (49). Trimble County's Ethan Horn matched those feats, averaging 21.8 points per game while setting the Raiders' marks for career points (1,679) and points in a game (54).

Madison junior Quincy Reynolds didn't break any records, but the junior put an injury-riddled Cub team on his back and averaged 15.4 points and 4.1 rebounds. He currently has 736 points and is likely to be the 17th player in school history to reach 1,000 points.

Shawe junior Braiden Smith (16.3 ppg, 7.8 rpg) and Carroll County senior Braden Stephenson (12.7 ppg, 5.0 rpg) round out the second team.

Switzerland County's Isaac Williams ended up playing a key role for a Pacer team that was hit with injuries early in the season and averaged 4.0 ppg to earn Freshman of the Year honors.

POTY

"The doctor felt like there was a chance (if he played) that it would be OK or that it could break in half," Craig said. "It broke in half."

Craig's sophomore season was over, but the biggest worry was how long it would take to come back. He skipped the baseball season but by the time the AAU season began over the summer he was back on the court. When November rolled around, he was back to his old self.

But that did not end the worries. He tweaked the foot a few times early in the season — tweaks that made him pause out of caution — and he quit baseball this season after his foot swelled following an early practice. However, those worries didn't stop him from averaging 25.2 points and 9.8 rebounds per game while leading the Pacers to their first sectional title since 2013.

Along the way, he became just the sixth player in program history to reach 1,000 points and set the school record for points in a season with 654. With 1,162 points, Craig is already third on Switzerland County's career scoring list and Brad Burk's career mark of 1,456 is well within range.

But Craig is not worried about records. As humble as it gets, his only concern is wins and leading the Pacers to heights they've never achieved.

"I have (thought about the record) but it's just one of those things that you dream about. I'm not gonna force and rush to get there," Craig said. "Hopefully it comes, but we'll just see what happens."

Craig has already turned his attention to the summer basketball season. While he's had some contacts with a few college coaches, he has fielded nothing concrete as yet and is hopeful of drawing some attention this summer.

In the meantime, he will continue to hone his skills and prepare for his senior season. Switzerland County returns three starters and Craig is confident of continued success.

"We have three returning starters and we have some good role guys coming back and our JV was pretty decent this year. So we're definitely looking forward to it," Craig said. "And we're hoping that the culture we built is gonna lay over from last year."
